

POLICE BATTLE UNION MEN IN SAN FRANCISCO

26 ARE INJURED BY GUNS, FISTS AND TEAR BOMBS

Fighting Starts When Attempt Made To Open Port

San Francisco, July 3.—(P)—Fighting between nearly 700 police and about 3,000 union pickets resulted here today from a move by business interests to open forcibly the strike-paralyzed port to commerce in the face of pleas for peace by President Roosevelt's labor dispute committee.

Roaring guns, exploding tear gas bombs and swinging clubs and fists took a toll of at least 26 injured as hand to hand battles raged more than two hours.

Twenty-eight truck loads of packed canned goods, coffee, tires and other merchandise were moved by five trucks making rallies in running the gauntlet of picket lines to move cargo from the congested piers to warehouses.

Trucks Overturned
Five trucks not connected with the strike were overturned by the rioters and one machine was set on fire.

After announcing five trucks had run the gauntlet of strike picketers, Frank Carmody, representative of the Industrial Association, announced his organization considered the port "technically open" and that more trucks were available to clear the piers.

At the same time cargo moving activities were going on in Seattle, Birmingham and Portland. Police experienced no trouble in pushing back the picket lines at Seattle to facilitate the movement of goods from the piers to warehouses.

In Portland 45 registered longshoremen began unloading the British motorship Silver Cedar and another crew worked the freighter Illinois. Picket lines swelled there but no violence occurred.

The forcible movement of cargo here followed closely two pleas by the union's labor disputes board, composed of Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, O. K. Cushing and E. F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, for settlement of the complicated strike issues by negotiations.

A few hours before the trouble began the board asked the 77,000 Pacific coast strikers to return to work and submit their grievances to arbitration. Just as the battling started the president's committee announced it had been "urged to insist" that the employers deal collectively with the strikers. Previously Attorney General Cummings had ruled the board had no power to compel the employers to deal collectively with the various unions on strike.

Hyde Park Has 200 Flat Auto Tires In Day

Chicago, July 3.—(P)—There were 200 flat tires—on automobiles—in the Hyde Park district today and police were urgently requested to do something about them. The tires apparently had been punctured by vandals bearing ice picks while the machines were parked in the neighborhood. Capt. J. L. Hogan had two theories in the mystery—that the sabotage had been inspired by garage owners or by residents who objected to having the streets cluttered with the cars.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET ASSAULTS ON 'NEW DEAL'

Group of Senators
Plan Speaking
Tours

By Elton C. Fay
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, July 3.—(P)—A group of democratic Senators are planning to take to the country an outline of the Roosevelt Recovery Program that will be designed to meet republican assaults upon the new deal.

This will be in addition to the regular campaigns of democrats running for reelection—Senators and Congressmen—and to the around-the-country trips of cabinet members and administration advisors.

The tentative plan will call into action the Senators not up for reelection and who have been particularly active in boosting through Congress special phases of the administration's program.

Robinson To Speak
While the names of those at the top of the speaking list are still highly tentative, they are expected to include upwards of a dozen specialists on the new deal, in addition to general campaigning by such leaders as Robinson of Arkansas, Barkley of Kentucky will open the counter attack tonight with a national radio address.

The roll call for the agricultural shock troops includes such men as Byrnes of South Carolina, Russell of Georgia and Barkley of Kentucky.

To discuss the financial program, there will be Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Finance committee who will be free of any reelection problems for himself.

In the labor picture—recently accentuated with the creation of a new national labor board through the joint handiwork of Congress and President Roosevelt—are Wagner of New York and Costigan of Colorado, both veterans of battles for labor legislation.

While the tentative program is built around a corps of senatorial experts, it also is based on a belief that there should be a coordination of the speaking engagements of Senators.

The address last night of Henry P. Fletcher, new chairman of the republican national committee, was the verbal fireworks among the political politicians today. Representative Britten (R-Ill.) said it "tore the mask off the illusion of prosperity" and that the republican chairman "cracked down" on the "regimentation of pauperism as a dangerous substitute for unemployment."

But representative Byrnes, democratic floor leader of the House, interrupted the Fletcher talk over a national radio hookup as "just another attack on President Roosevelt."

"The people," he said, "are not in a humor to listen to anybody complain without having something to suggest."

HONOR COOLIDGE
Plymouth, Vt., July 3.—(P)—The memory of Calvin Coolidge will be honored tomorrow, the anniversary of his birth.

Ceremonies will be conducted at the grave of the former president who lies on a terrace of the old graveyard down the road a bit from the little village of Plymouth.

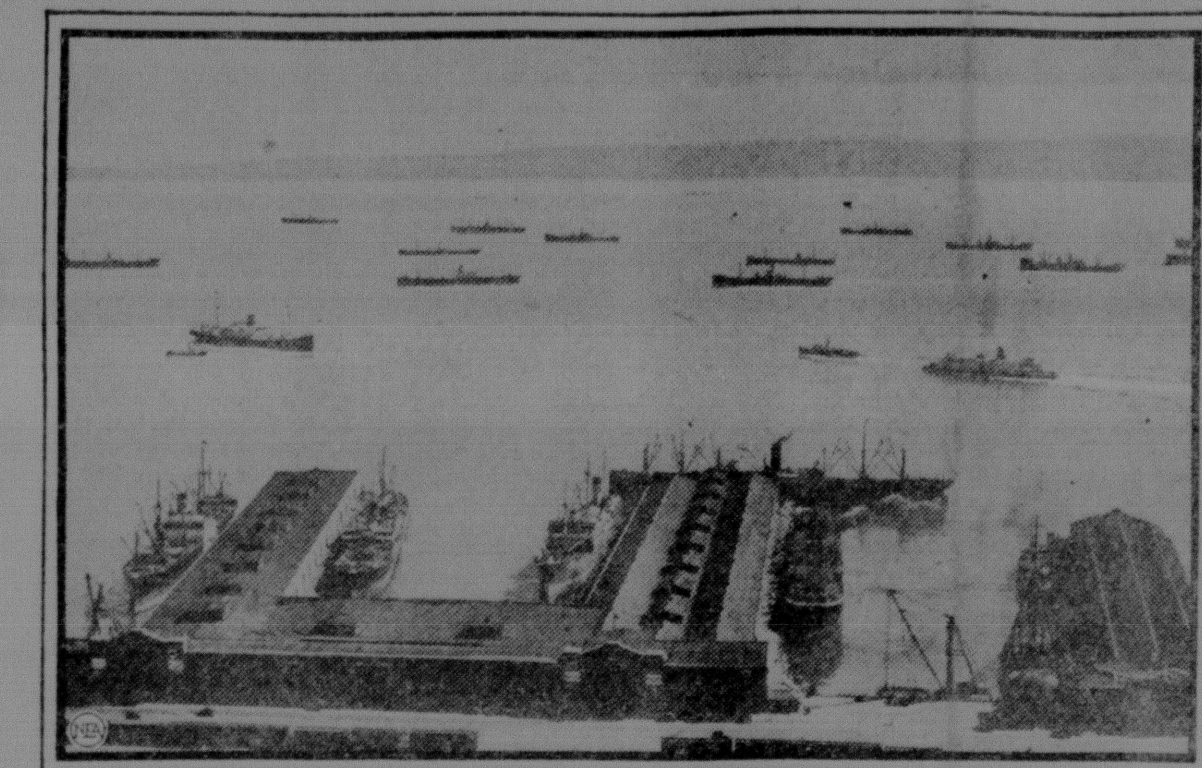

More than 200 Boy Scouts are expected to participate. A wreath will be placed on the grave by Major Raymond E. Lee of Montpelier, who represents the army in Vermont, under commission of his commander-in-chief, President Roosevelt, who sent the wreath from the White House before leaving on his cruise.

WILL AID REINHARDT
Hollywood, July 3.—(P)—Felix Weissberger, Vienna, announced here today that 300 motion picture actors, many of stellar prominence, will aid Max Reinhardt stage "Midsummer Night's Dream" in the Hollywood bowl starting Sept. 19.

Weissberger is first assistant to the noted producer.

AGED WOMAN DIES
St. Louis, July 3.—(P)—Mrs. Emilie Genestelle, 72, great-granddaughter of Paddy Laclade, founder of St. Louis, died last night at her home of her daughter. She was 89 years old.

Where Police And Union Pickets Battled

Roaring guns, exploding tear gas bombs and swinging clubs and fists took a toll of at least 26 injured Tuesday, when 700 police and 3,000 union pickets fought along San Francisco's magnificent harbor, where 175 vessels have been tied up for several weeks.

E. W. MARLAND LEADS FIELD IN OKLAHOMA

Congressman Promised To Bring State Into New Deal

Oklahoma City, July 3.—(P)—E. W. Marland, the congressman who has promised to bring Oklahoma into the Rooseveltian "New Deal," stepped well in front of his 14 opponents for the Democratic nomination as governor on the face of mounting returns tonight.

In second position, more than 2,500 votes behind the former oil magnate, was Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray's picked candidate—Speaker Tom Anglin.

The two high candidates must face a run-off July 24.

Hampered by huge waves that baffled a sweating army of hot weather voters, the count proceeded at a snail's pace.

Returns from 256 precincts out of 3,352, gathered by the Associated Press, gave Marland 9,096; Anglin 6,446; "Iron Jack" Walton, impeached governor and now corporation commissioner, 4,260; Attorney General J. Berry King, bitter Murray foe, 2,897; Homer Smith, speech-making Oklahoma City attorney, 2,636; and a scattering of votes for the others.

Will Rogers, the rural schoolmaster, started to an early lead in his quest for reelection as congressman-at-large. Henry S. Johnston, deposed governor, was in second place, and E. B. Howard, former congressman, held third in the free-for-all for the Democratic nomination for the office which Rogers won two years ago.

LINDBERGH PILOTS TRANSPORT PLANE

Bridgeport, Conn., July 3.—(P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh piloted the S-42, the largest American built transport plane, constructed for the Pan American Airways primary for trans-Atlantic service, at 190 miles an hour late today, using only 85 per cent of the boat's power.

Lindbergh was one of four aeronautical celebrities who took a turn at the controls of the ship, which today was licensed for international service on the South American trade routes by Eugene L. Vidal, director of the bureau of aeronautics of the department of commerce.

Vidal, C. L. Schildeuer, pilot of the DC-3 when it hopped the Atlantic for this country, and Ed Musick, chief pilot of the Pan American Airways, also took the controls.

The 19-ton flying boat, to be christened "The Brazilian Clipper" at a Rio De Janeiro by Senora Getulio Vargas, wife of the president of Brazil, carried a party of 26.

HAVANA MAYOR HAS RESIGNED

Havana, July 3.—(P)—Miguel M. Gomez, mayor of Havana and as such a member of the cabinet of President Medietta, resigned his offices tonight. Friends of the mayor said he planned to organize a political party to participate in the presidential elections next December.

Notice of Gomez's resignation had not reached the palace tonight.

President Medietta today named three new secretaries to the cabinet, bringing to an end political uncertainty which had endured for ten days. Medardo Viller, a university professor unaffiliated with any political party, was named secretary of education. Mario Montero, also unaffiliated with a political group, was named secretary of justice. Pelayo Cuervo, a nationalist, was named secretary of the department of the interior, of which he formerly was sub-secretary.

Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, Dillinger Gangsters, Obtain Indefinite Stays

Columbus, O., July 3.—(P)—Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, Dillinger gangsters, obtained indefinite stays of their death sentences late today through appeals to the State Supreme Court.

Petitions in error as of right raising constitutional questions in the validity of their convictions for the murder of Sheriff Jess Sarber of Allen county, last Oct. 12, while liberating their chief, were filed by their attorneys, Miss Jessie Levy of Indianapolis and Clarence C. Miller of Lima.

Stay Executions
The filing of the petitions automatically stayed execution of the death sentences which had been set for July 13. Under ordinary court procedure, the court will not pass upon the appeals until after the summer recess which terminates Sept. 18.

No new constitutional questions were raised in the petitions other than those raised before the court of appeals which had overruled the appeals and affirmed the convictions.

Chief grounds alleged for reversal and on which reliance for a favorable verdict is sought by the defendants' attorneys are that Pierpont and Makley did not receive fair and impartial and public trials because of the presence of National Guardsmen and machine guns.

The hand-cuffing and manhandling of the defendants during the trial as well as shackling them with leg irons also was declared in violation of the constitution guaranteeing a fair and impartial trial.

Sheriff Sarber was killed when six men invaded the Allen county jail and liberated John Dillinger who was being held as a suspected bank robber.

Whittinsville, Mass., July 3.—(P)—John Dillinger, America's elusive Public Enemy Number One, escaped without detection today if he was in Massachusetts.

This small town swarmed with local state and federal officers following the report late last night that Dillinger and a woman companion had stopped here for gasoline.

Perry Burns, 37-year-old station attendant, and his companion, Gerald Baker, 16, saw a couple drive into the station in a light sedan bearing Michigan license plates.

Burns positively identified his customer as Dillinger when he was shown a police circular.

Muncie, Ind., July 3.—(P)—Floyd Privett, Muncie traffic policeman, reported to police headquarters today that a man he believed to be John Dillinger had driven through the downtown town district this afternoon in a Ford sedan accompanied by another man and a woman.

Privett said the machine carried West Virginia license plates, but was unable to give the number. A squad was sent to search for the machine, but found no trace of it.

Privett said he was acquainted with Dillinger, having seen him here when he was on parole from the state prison a year ago.

State police had a futile search for Dillinger in this vicinity yesterday.

NAMED IN LAW SUITS

Los Angeles, July 3.—(P)—Two screen stars and their wives were named in municipal law suits here today.

An assignee for Dr. E. E. Pasette asserted in one complaint that Harry "Bing" Crosby and his wife, Dixie Lee Crosby, have neglected to pay a $1,000 doctor bill for the care of their infant son, Gary.

Another suit charged Pat O'Brien and his wife, Eloise Taylor O'Brien, owe their land lady, Etta Goldsmith, $520.97 for damage to household furnishings.

FIRST PAYMENT

Peoria, Ill., July 3.—(P)—The first payment by the Federal Deposit Corporation Insurance Corporation to a bank which failed while insured was made today at the Pond Du Lac State Bank of East Peoria.

WOMAN IS HELD FOR SLAYING OF KLAN BODYGUARD

Bloodstains Are Found In Kitchen, Police Claim

Jefferson, Wis., July 3.—(P)—Circumstantial evidence gleaned by investigators seeking a solution to the mysterious slaying of Earl Gentry, 47-year-old former bodyguard to the grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, resulted tonight in the holding of Mrs. Carrie Gill, Gentry's landlady, under a warrant for first degree murder.

In issuing the warrant for Mrs. Gill, 59, with whom Gentry, described by authorities as a "public enemy," had lived for seven years, district attorney Harold M. Dakin said:

"This warrant is issued largely on circumstantial evidence. This evidence comes for the most part in the report of Dr. J. H. Mathews, University of Wisconsin criminologist. Dr. Mathews reported that stains found in the kitchen of the Gill home were undoubtedly human blood stains."

"Dr. Mathews says the bullet taken from Gentry's brain was identical with one taken from a cartridge found in Gentry's bureau drawer in the Gill home."

"Dr. Mathews said there wasn't the slightest possibility that Gentry committed suicide."

"The bloody rug found around Gentry's body was taken from the kitchen of Mrs. Gill. Mrs. Gill admits that one of the towels found near Gentry's car was from her home. She admits one of the towels taken from the river was from her home."

Gentry was found with a bullet in his brain in his car parked near the Jefferson City limits early Sunday.

Suspicion against Mrs. Gill grew today with the inspection of a will in which Gentry had named her sole beneficiary, but later had nullified in a curious scrawl in which he accused the woman of threatening his life.

Sheriff Joseph T. Lange said letters found among Gentry's effects explained the widow was jealous and had rebuked him for going out with women in Indiana.

DIVORCEE KEEPS MAN IN LOCKUP

Chicago, July 3.—(P)—Maurice E. Rappert was in the county jail today and Mrs. Marie O'Connell, a divorcee, said he was going to stay there until he makes up his mind to marry her.

Mrs. O'Connell had Rappert thrown in jail because he had not paid a judgment for $2,000 which she obtained after a suit for $50,000 damages for breach of promise to marry. The judgment contained a malice clause which enabled him to be cast into jail.

Mrs. O'Connell has been on relief rolls for two years. When asked how she obtained the $350 necessary to pay Rappert's board bill at the county jail, she replied:

"Mr. Rappert paid his own board bill for the first week, although he doesn't know it yet. He gave me some money from time to time and I saved enough of that to pay the first week."

Mrs. O'Connell said she was "going to keep him in jail for the six months, or until he comes to his senses and agrees to marry me."

DISASTROUS BLAZE

Wadsworth, Ill., July 3.—(P)—Fire today destroyed the superintendent's house on the farm of Congressman James Simpson, Jr., near here. Damage was estimated at $10,500.

ADOLF HITLER HURRIES TO VON HINDENBERG AS CRISIS FACES GERMANY

FOURTH OF JULY WEATHER WILL BE FAIR, CLAIM

Umbrellas However,
May Be Used In
Some Sectors

By The Associated Press
Independence day celebrators will be favored by fair weather over most of the nation but in a few sections umbrellas may be packed with the picnic lunches.

Forecasters studied their meteorological maps yesterday and came up with pronouncements that generally cheered the millions who had planned to spend the holiday in the great outdoors or who had arranged to participate in patriotic programs that embraced both verbal and pyrotechnical fireworks.

They predicted the east would enjoy pleasant conditions after scattered thundershowers that would cool that area during the night. Moderate temperatures also were expected to prevail over the northern division of the great plains states and, while some showers were anticipated in certain portions of the midwest, no precipitation of consequence was in sight.

Heat Continues
Continuation of the heat siege was promised Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, and other states which make up the southern tier of prairie commonwealths. Oregon, Washington and coastal California were to have moderate weather with higher readings in the interior of the latter state.

But residents of Iowa, Ohio and Washington, D. C., drew the umbrella warnings. Thundershowers may visit Ohio over the Fourth in the wake of rain which fell in the northern part of the state yesterday and were predicted for the national capital this afternoon. Some showers were in prospect in Iowa and were regarded as possible in the Southern Rocky Mountain region.

Mountainville, thermometers stubbornly hovered in the upper reaches in many districts. Oklahoma City reported 100 degree weather as thousands of election workers prepared to spend the holiday counting primary election votes. The mercury remained in the 90s for the fifteenth consecutive day at St. Louis as the number of deaths attributed to the heat there in that period mounted to 27. Another prostration victim succumbed at Steubenville, Ohio, and the continuation of 90-degree heat for the fifth day in Pennsylvania added another life to the toll.

New York City suffered under 91 degree warmth and a humidity that attained the 64 level. Indiana experienced similar conditions and the 90-mark was expected to be equalled in Washington today.

The hot ball still hung over the Kansas-Missouri area and visited the eastern slope of the Rockies. The remainder of the midwest relished an interlude of more temperate weather.

Footville, O., recorded an early firework casualty. Robert Zizka, a blacksmith, incurred a shattered right hand and an injured eye when a small cannon exploded.

Queen Wilhelmina hurried home from Switzerland at the time, however, she was on a holiday. Today, however, she was not at the royal palace when the prince's condition suddenly took a turn for the worse.

They had one daughter, Princess Juliana, who was in London at the time of her father's death. She had planned to return tomorrow because of her father's illness. She was grief-stricken upon learning of his sudden death.

A typical "land-junker," the prince was interested in questions affecting the management of estates, agriculture and reforestation. His favorite recreation was the chase and in his younger years he hunted in Indian, Ceylon and Palestine.

In 1924 he made a trip to Spain where King Alfonso conferred upon him the order of the golden fleece, confined to royalty. In 1907 he increased his popularity vastly by going out to sea in a lifeboat during a storm and helping to rescue survivors of the sinking steamer Berlin, off the Dutch coast.

REASON FOR DARKNESS
Chicago, July 3.—(P)—No wonder it was nearly dark in several midwestern localities during that gust storm May 10. The Yerkes observatory said today that measurements showed that only one percent of the sun's light passed through that dust cloud.

Professor C. T. Elvey of the observatory studied the dust clouds in order to make a comparison of terrestrial dust storms with the cosmic dust clouds which are believed to obscure many regions of the skies.

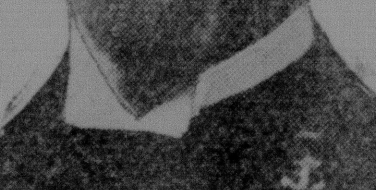

J. G. Heaton of Winchester was a business visitor in the city yesterday.

BABY FALLS TWO FLOORS
Chicago, July 3.—(P)—Donald Rottner, 2, fell from a second story window of his home today—but it was his mother who got hurt.

Donald started his flight when a screen gave way. His mother, Lea, dashed downstairs. She slipped on a step, tumbled headlong and suffered severe cuts and bruises. Donald suffered only one tiny scratch.

End Comes Before The Queen Can Reach
His Bedside

PRINCE HENRY

The Hague, Netherlands, July 3.—(P)—Only a few months after the passing of the queen mother, the Dutch royal family was plunged into mourning again today by the death of Prince Henry, the husband of Queen Wilhelmina.

The prince consort, 58 years old, died suddenly and unexpectedly of heart disease before the queen could reach his bedside.

As the Duke of Merkenburg, of ancient noble lineage, the prince consort made one of the most brilliant matches of his generation at the age of 24—he married a ruling queen.

The nation's flags were placed at half-staff in tribute to the popularity and kindness of the affable man who, a German by birth, became a loyal Hollander and by his simple and unaffected manner won the friendship of the people.

Halt Social Life
The social life of the nation was halted for a period of mourning, among the cancelled events being a Fourth of July reception at the American legation.

The prince consort, Henry Yladimir Albert Ernest, had been ill since March 28 when he suffered a fainting spell in his headquarters at the Red Cross, but he was thought to be improving.

Queen Wilhelmina hurried home from Switzerland at the time, however, she was on a holiday. Today, however, she was not at the royal palace when the prince's condition suddenly took a turn for the worse.

They had one daughter, Princess Juliana, who was in London at the time of her father's death. She had planned to return tomorrow because of her father's illness. She was grief-stricken upon learning of his sudden death.

PRESIDENT IS IN CONTROL OF REGULAR ARMY

Vice Chancellor Von Papen May Retain
His Office

Berlin, July 3.—(P)—A new crisis in the Nazi government tonight sent Chancellor Hitler by airplane to the east one man who is credited with being able to do what he pleases in Germany by making use of the regular army.

The Chancellor dashed dramatically from a cabinet meeting to the airport after a carefully-planned scheme to remove the president's old friend and protégé, Vice-Chancellor Franz Von Papen, from office fell through.

Everybody a few hours before had been saying Von Papen would resign and be succeeded by Hitler's colleague in Saturday's bloody "liquidation," Hermann Wilhelm Goerring.

After Twenty Years

On June 28, 1914, a radical Serbian student, Gabriel Princip, killed an Austrian archduke and his wife in the town of Sarajevo, Bosnia. The shots fired by this radical exploded the European powder keg and started the world war. After 20 years the world has not begun to reconstruct itself, having had its economic structure destroyed in that conflict.

On Friday evening, June 29, 1934, Adolph Hitler was informed by his secret police in Germany that his best friends were plotting against him. On Saturday morning Hitler started killing off the "traitors," and continued the wholesale executions until Tuesday. He gained for himself the title of the Robespierre of Germany by wading thru a sea of blood to hold his position at the head of the state.

Meanwhile France has been watching the German situation in the belief that Hitler is now only a puppet victim set up by the German army.
If that is true, the army will make the next move, and that interests France. No nation knows better than France that Robespierre was killed in like manner as he slaughtered, and that after the Revolution in which he played a leading part came Napoleon, the man who upset the map of Europe.

Will Germany then have a Napoleon? Will the German killings be the spark that will again set off the European powder mine? At least every 20 years the world has a major conflict. Events in Europe this summer are strikingly like those of 1914, and the situation seems just about as delicate. The German "bluffs" is very much like the French Revolution, and a German Napoleon is next in order.

Our Changed Economy

The world war destroyed the economic structure of mankind. It did more, it changed the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation.
We are still suffering from that change and the failure to adjust ourselves to it. A creditor nation, if it is to be paid, must create a trade balance in favor of its debtors. It must buy more than it sells in dealing with the nations that owe it.
They must be given an opportunity to pay their obligations in goods.
All this the United States has not done and in fact cannot do, without further wrecking its economic structure. If we buy more from foreign countries than we sell them, we will have to produce less at home. On the other hand, if we sell more to foreign countries, get back our foreign markets, we must extend new credit. If we do not get back those markets, we have a surplus at home and bring on ourselves the sort of production control we now have in agriculture.

Other countries have learned to produce more of what they use and are no longer dependent on the United States. We produce more than we can use and must either stop producing or sell abroad. We could increase consumption somewhat but perhaps not enough to keep everybody employed, unless we were willing to make radical changes in our economic system, which would be experimental and perhaps dangerous.

The United States cannot be blamed for not adjusting itself to the changed conditions. Adjustment is economically painful, and if our country can bring about a gradual change and avoid economic stress and strain, so much the better. The destruction brought on the world by the war cannot be neutralized by reconstruction as rapidly as it was consumed. Rome was not built in a day or a year, tho it was burned while Nero played a violin recital.

When Everyone Rode

Proposed sale of the bus franchise in Jacksonville by the Illinois Power & Light Corporation touched off the furies of memory of a citizen yesterday afternoon. This gentleman has seen the methods of transportation change several times in the last half century. Therefore he can speak interestingly on the subject.

"When we wanted to go to town thirty or forty years ago we took the street car, when we went to a ball game we rode the cars; a trip to church Sunday morning was started by waiting for the cars. That was the way most of the people traveled.

"I remember those ball games they used to have west of town near the School for the Deaf. It was not uncommon to have 1,500 people at the games Sunday afternoon. And most of them rode the street cars. A few showed up in buggies, but the most of the crowd depended on the cars to get them there and back."

"There were the closed cars and the open air 'trailers' that carried as many as could crowd on. They used to hang on the running boards and jam the platforms. Sitting or standing, they got there and back."
That was in the hey day of street car transportation. The old Jacksonville Street Railway Company at one time was a flourishing organization, with lines serving the main streets and extending to the city limits.

Even the present generation can recall the beginning of the end of street cars in Jacksonville. The East State street line was abandoned beyond the railroad tracks. The South Main line was pulled up from Nichols park. The line extending to the car shops was abandoned. Then new paving projects afforded an excellent chance to get rid of some of the remaining tracks which were not conducive to smooth automobile traffic.

The last of this city's street cars now repose on a lot in the north edge of the town of Virginia. They were bought with the idea of converting them into tourist cabins, but the purpose evidently was abandoned.

Buses took the place of the electrically propelled street cars. They have been through a rather hectic career. The service is available, but it seems that passengers are not. A crowded bus is now a rarity.

The Power & Light Corporation is said to have been operating the buses at a loss. If the corporation's petition for sale is granted, another organization will take over the service and attempt to make it pay.

The disappearance of street cars and the dwindling business of the buses is a result of the evolution of transportation methods. The automobile has made the average citizen his own motorman and conductor.
He no longer waits for the car, but the car waits for him, in the garage or in front of his residence.

Street cars never will return. The bus business still has a chance.
Whether the riding habits of Jacksonville citizens will change again in a few years is a question. If the bus business can survive, it is better than to see a transportation system that was once the city's principal means of getting around completely scrapped.

Trips For Boys

F. H. Collier, in one of his columns, suggests an antidote for youthful hitch-hiking. He holds that it is natural for youngsters to want to get out and see the world, and hitchhiking has proved an ingenious and successful way for some of them to accomplish it. It is also a dangerous way.

Mr. Collier's suggestion concerns the boy who is neither a bum nor a criminal but merely an imaginative youngster, who is likely to come back home, get a job and stick to it after one hitch-hiking jaunt or so. Why not, he asks, invite such lads to go along on business or pleasure trips when there is room in the car. The generous motorist would "get a good and willing assistant" and an eager traveling companion. The boy would "get his mind broadened by the well-known instrumentality of travel."

Philanthropically-minded travelers are offered the idea for what they care to make of it.

CENSORSHIP

The suggestion that there should be a boycott on objectionable motion pictures reminds us of an explanation which Justin A. Washburn, Rock Island county superintendent of schools, said a college dean advanced for his presence in one of the bright light places at the Chicago World's Fair. The dean, Mrs. Washburn said, excused his ineligibility in the entertainment by saying that unless he had opportunity to observe he would be in no position to warn young people against such entertainment. Many of us would want to see a film to judge for ourselves whether it was proper entertainment for us—Rock Island

Sob Stories Are Futile to Halt Deportations... Hairy
Harry Hopkins Needs Hair Cut... Big Puzzle Is, When
Is an Embargo?

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington, July 3.—Immigration Commissioner Daniel W. MacCormack has a wagon-load of sob stories to back up his reprieve for 1200 aliens who would be deported if he enforced the law.

MacCormack can tell you about—The fellow who lived nine years legally in this country, then went to Canada on a brief honeymoon, contracted tuberculosis, couldn't pay the sanatorium bill, and is now deportable because he became a public charge within five years after his technical entry from Canada. Working on a part-time job, the man supports wife, father, and mother. But his deportation is mandatory on MacCormack.

The girl who came to America with her father at the age of 11, became insane and went to an asylum four years later—thus becoming deportable—recovered, and now contributes to her family's support.

The Canadian who lived in the United States thirty-two years, reared five American children, spent Christmas in Canada with his mother and had mental troubles after his return.

The boy whose mother brought him in from Canada when he was 9 without getting lawful entry for him, whose father has been deported to Rumania, and whose family will be split to three countries if the law is carried out.

The Hungarian hunchback girl who joined her family of six in 1929, entering as a student, who must now be deported and supported by money sent to Hungary by her family.

The alien who lived fifty years here, married and had several children, went to Canada in 1930 looking for work, had to walk back because he was broke and is now deportable to Europe because he crossed the border without being inspected.

MacCormack and Secretary Perkins have no option in these cases except to deport. A bill to give them limited discretion in such cases, especially where worthy families would be broken there is in the last congress. The 1200 aliens affected have been given a stay of deportation until January.

Is Hairy Harry Hopkins

Harry Hopkins, wearing what would have seemed a girl's boyish bob if it hadn't been so fuzzy at the edges, was nailed by correspondents as he strode from the White House executive offices.

"I didn't see the president," he said, "but I saw General Johnson and Frank Walker and they told me for God's sake to go and get a haircut."

When Is an Embargo?
If an embargo is a rigid stop-order against certain exports and has the effect of cutting off such exports, you may find the congressional embargo on shipment of arms to warring Paraguay and Bolivia isn't an embargo at all.

Two or three shiploads of munitions have not been allowed to go on to Bolivia since congress declared against that sort of thing. And now lobbyists are demanding release of about two million dollars' worth of planes and other war materials for both countries, on the ground that they were ordered prior to the embargo.

The State Department referred the lobbyists to the Department of Justice, where legal experts are wrestling with the question: When is an embargo not an embargo? The question resolves itself into one of when a sale is to be considered actually consummated.

Last payments aren't made until the goods are delivered. The lobbyists argue that the sale was consummated
prior to the embargo.

But the worst, according to insiders,
is yet to come.
Congress didn't forbid shipments of munitions to the nations fighting the Chaco war. It outlawed only the sale of munitions in the United States.
The question is being posed: What's to stop Bolivia or Paraguay from consummating such a sale in Canada or Cuba with the agent of an American company which would then proceed to manufacture and ship the stuff from these shores?

Make Improvements
in Athletic Field

A special meeting of baseball managers of the Y. M. C. A. Twilight League will be held at 8 o'clock this evening at the "Y" building, 423 West State street. Members of the baseball teams have been busy the past few days making improvements in the high school athletic field.

A backstop has been built and the baseball diamond has been relayed farther east of its old location in conformity with the blueprints of the field. Five large iron poles to support the backstop were contributed by the Illinois Power & Light Co. They were formerly used on the company's lines in the city.

Contributions to pay for the wire and other material used in the construction will be acceptable. The improvements being made in the field will be permanent and will be an asset to the high school athletic association.

EARLY FEEDING OF GRAIN TO PULLETS
INSURES EGG CASH

Urbana, Ill., July 3.—Pushing pullets for extra early fall egg production may be a tempting way of trying to improve the farm's cash income this year, but such pullets may "fade" out as layers and as a steady source of income, says H. H. Alp, poultry extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. Eggs have brought Illinois farmers an average annual income of $20,000,000 during the past four years, and this source of cash probably will be relied on more than ever this year, he said.

Egg prices are generally at their highest in the fall months, and to take advantage of this market, poultrymen force their pullets into early production by continuing them on a mash higher in protein than is needed for good growth.

The all-mash system of feeding has proved quite satisfactory in many instances, points out Alp. However, when used incorrectly it is believed to be partially responsible for pullets "fading" out of production in the fall and winter, because of failure to secure good physical development during the growing period. Early maturity in pullets is desirable, but maturity at the expense of physical development is likely to prove unprofitable.

To help overcome erratic winter laying, it is suggested that growing pullets be fed for good physical development, such as may be obtained on many farms through liberal feeding of grain. It is true that grain-fed birds may not come into production as quickly, but in the opinion of a number of practical poultrymen, they are likely to be more consistent in their winter laying.

A mixture of equal parts of cracked corn and wheat fed in a hopper, in conjunction with the regular mash, has given satisfactory economical results, Alp explains. As the birds become older, whole grain may be substituted for the cracked corn in the mixture.

Regardless of the method of feeding used, great care should be taken to accomplish good physical development and fleshing first. Undoubtedly there has been too much of a tendency to see how quickly a flock can be made to begin laying rather than how consistently, in the opinion of Alp.

Heavy Wheat Yields

Heavy wheat yields were reported during the week end from the western part of Jersey county. Virgil Cope of the Fieldon vicinity was in Jerseyville Saturday evening and reported that he had operated a combine in a field of wheat raised by Henry Shaw which averaged thirty-eight bushels to the acre.

The field was of the variety known as Perkiat. Another field of wheat in which the combine was being operated Saturday by Cope promised to average forty five bushels to the acre at the rate which it had been producing during the day.

This field was on land rented by Ruby Miller of the Fieldon vicinity and lies near the county line of Greene and Jersey county.

A field of twenty seven acres on the Frank Sawyer farm northeast of Jerseyville averaged 34 bushels to the acre when it was threshed Saturday.

Dr. Wadsworth Tells of Visit to Greek Parliament Session

Interesting incidents of life in a foreign land are related in a letter received by relatives here from Dr.
Julian Wadsworth, now in Athens, Greece. The letter was written June 10th. It reads in part as follows:

Of the week, there are two incidents that I would like to have had you with me to enjoy. One was an unexpected visit to the House of Parliament which is in vast contrast to your magnificent Congressional buildings in Washington. But so is this little youthful Republic of Greece like Athens and its old seaport, the Piraeus, as having a population of more than a million. We took the subway to Piraeus (four cents), a tram from the station (one and one-half cents) to the settlement of Lipasna, having forty or fifty thousand people. You simply cannot imagine how these poor but thirty people are living. They have only one room in each shack, however large the family. These houses look like a whole lot of boxes for birds, as they are crowded together and attached to the side of the hill, hardly room for the goats or sheep, or dogs or cats—almost every tiny house has a cage with a singing bird and all have flowers!

The work is most interesting. Dr.
Marden has been a very successful missionary—having built up a remarkable hospital in Asia Minor. Like the other refugees, he was driven out with all foreigners. His splendid property was confiscated by the Turks. He is the son of a missionary whose life had been given for the Armenians with whom he is now working. He told me of a boy whom he met in this forlorn camp a few years ago who was so very bright, as a little lad, speaking as a perfect orator in the Greek, though he was Armenian. Dr. Mar-dent got some American interested in the boy, who sent him to college in

Greek Speaks Mind
I remarked that he was out of the city for the time. Mr. Parmenitis said, "Yes, he is in body out of town, and many wish that he would be in ever sense out of town. Some there are who wish he would never come back."

Well, knowing that things in the House of Deputies are just now acute, I stepped up to an officer guarding the gate, asked him if he spoke French, (I knew he did not), but my question attracted the attention of a fine looking Greek who was entering.
He asked me in French what I wanted to know. I said I merely wanted to know what was going on inside. He said, "Come in and see." "But," I said, "I am a foreigner and ought not to go in." Then another stepped up, and both being deputies, members of congress assured me I could enter with them and they would be glad to have me do so.

It was really most interesting to find myself with them in the Chamber, where all these interesting scenes were taking place, and they were laughing with me about the "situation". Both men were good friends, though at the extreme ends of their different politics. They took me up to the room where the President of the Chamber has his office, but he was out. They introduced me to the Larceny Case Goes to Greene Co. Jury

Carrollton, Ill., July 3.—County Judge Gilbert K. Hutchens, called a setting of County Court in the Greene County Court rooms Monday. The case of The People vs. Austin, et al, charged with larceny, was called and a jury trial asked. The task of selecting a jury took until mid-afternoon, when a panel was accepted and taking of testimony was begun. The charge is that on the 13 of June the defendants, William Austin, Lloyd VanMeter and Roy Rice, siphoned ten gallons of coal oil from a tractor belonging to Philip Stacker of Roodhouse, and had same in their possession when arrested.

Rice, who has been sentenced to a term of from one to twenty years in the penitentiary at Joliet, on another charge, pleaded guilty and made a confession implicating the other two defendants. The defense council made a strong fight on admitting Rice's confession on the grounds that it was not a written one, and also on the criminal record of Rice. The contention is that Rice in making the confession was trying to get the mercy of the board at Joliet when he is taken there. The arguments in the case were finished at 5:30 p. m. Monday and Judge Hutchens adjourned court until 11 a. m. Tuesday when he will instruct the jury.

Mrs. Minnie Arlene Herring of Woodriver township was brought before County Judge Gilbert K. Hutchens Monday morning for a hearing on her sanity. The court adjudged her insane and committed her to the State Hospital at Jacksonville. Sheriff Ward Burton took her to the hospital Monday morning.

Urge Education for Peace During Year

On the eve of the 158th anniversary of the birth of the nation the D.A.R. and many other of the patriotic societies appeal to their chapters for an education which will lead the youth to peace.

Outlines of department work have been sent out to the Rev. James Caldwell chapter which suggest a plan of citizenship and patriotic education.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declared in her address before the National D.A.R. congress "That while citizens should be willing to die for their country, it is even more important that they prepare themselves and others to live for it and a peaceful world. If our country is to lead the way toward a better way of living, it must be through proper education, the background and love of country and understanding of what is going on throughout the world."

Each chapter is asked by the state and national chapters to set aside a sum for a student loan contribution. Also to keep a careful examination of the habits, the reliability, earnestness and college affiliations of students. Chapters are reminded that if education is curtailed it is at the nation's peril. However, it must include American ideals and American constitutional form of government.

A survey is urged of the high schools and colleges in regard to the American history and civil government courses.

National, state and local historic sites should be made an object of contributions, so that the old sites will not be lost.

The "Fact Finding" committee founded by the Honorable Ruth Bryan Owen has been made permanent and will soon function in all states and after a training in good citizenship.

and after meeting certain requirements, the students receiving the highest average from the state group will make a pilgrimage to Washington. Closer study of the history of the Flag and the Flag codes is stressed for the societies and for chairmen, who are asked to place it in the schools, during the coming months.

A legislative program is one of the patriotic efforts that the chapters can put forth in national defense work, as suggested by the chairman, Mrs. William C. Becker.

Through the work of the "Better Films" committee, many chapters are using the Hollywood reports and suggestions, which are sent to the local chairmen.

It has been resolved at the last national congress of the D.A.R. to have a ritual for special ceremonies, to be drafted by the chaplain general. This will be sent to chapter regents when adopted by the national board.

The message which the president general, Mrs. Russell William Magnus, sends to the members and all patriots on this anniversary is "Have faith—faith in yourselves, faith in your society, and faith in your own government and your country."

ROOSEVELT RELAXES AS WRITERS SUFFER FROM SEA SICKNESS

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON. Aboard USS Gilmer Accompanying President Roosevelt, July 3.—(P)—President Roosevelt and his shipmates were afforded a real test of their seaworthiness as they headed due south toward Haiti and Puerto Rico. The cruiser Houston, bearing the presidential party, proceeded through rough seas last night and early today at a fast clip of 18 to 20 knots. The Houston dipped and pitched, and the trailing destroyers bobbed about like corks. Sea sickness casualties were high on the destroyer Gilmer, carrying newspapermen, and the destroyer Williamson, carrying secret service men, but they hung on grimly, declining an offer by the president to slacken the pace. Mr. Roosevelt enjoyed his second day on the Atlantic today, relaxing and taking things easy with his sons, Franklin, Jr., and John. But he remained in touch with the white house by wireless. He joshed the inland newspapermen about some of the non-nautical terms in their stories.

Joe Cronin, field boss of the Champion Washington Senators and Manager of the American League all-stars, paid his tribute to the Bronx brigade by selecting Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Lefty Gomez, Red Ruffing and Ben Chapman. Ten Players From New York Clubs Will Participate in All-Star Game Next Tuesday

By Alan Gould. New York, July 3.—Proponents of a "subway series" this fall between the Yankees and Giants for the world baseball championship may enjoy something of a pre-view when the all-star teams of the National and American League battle in gilt-edged form at the Polo Grounds.

Ten players from the two New York clubs, including six Yankees and four Giants, are among the forty baseball satellites named today for baseball's spectacular mid-season show.

Joe Cronin, field boss of the Champion Washington Senators and Manager of the American League all-stars, paid his tribute to the Bronx brigade by selecting Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Lefty Gomez, Red Ruffing and Ben Chapman. Bill Terry, besides playing first base and managing the Nationals, has recruited Chuck Hubbell, Mel Ott and Travis Jackson from the Giants.

Richard Finney of Bluffs Sentenced to 5 Years in Pen

Springfield, Ill., July 3.—(P)—Richard Finney, 28, Bluffs, Ill., was sentenced to five years in the Leavenworth penitentiary today in federal court. Finney was convicted last week with three other men previously sentenced, of robbing the Bluffs postmaster, P. M. Green, during a bank holdup. He had been accused of being the tip-off man in the robbery which was staged by out-of-town men.

In sentencing Finney, District Judge Charles Briggs said: "I am very, very sorry to have to sentence this young man, especially because of his father who has long been a respected resident of Bluffs. But in my opinion, Finney, an intelligent man, was more to blame for his part in the crime than was Rosa, who lacked Finney's advantages."

Harry Ross, Chicago, had previously been sentenced to six years in the penitentiary and Lloyd Lorraine and Robert Wilson, also of Chicago, were given ten years each.

"MARY FAITH" by Beatrice Burton

SYNOPSIS

Mary Faith, young and comely orphan, is secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy young business man. She informs Mark that she is leaving her position to marry Kimberley Farrell, handsome young lawyer, to whom she has been engaged for some time. Invited to Kim's house for dinner, Mary Faith is greeted coldly by his mother. Later, Kim starts Mary Faith by breaking his engagement and asking for the ring. The next morning, Mary Faith informs her co-workers that she is not to be married. She asks them to take back their presents. After working late, Mark Nesbit takes Mary Faith to dinner and home to her boarding house in his car. Slowly Mary Faith learns to live her life without Kim. When Mark Nesbit injures his ankle, Mary Faith is driven to his country home to take dictation. She meets his mother and enjoys the charming home life of the Nesbits. Jean Bartlett, Mary Faith's office friend, laughingly tells her she should marry Mark Nesbit. Mark, now back at the office, asks Mary Faith to help him select a ring for his sister. In the store she sees Kim Farrell. Kim, standing with a girl, approaches Mary Faith. She greets him casually.

CHAPTER XII

Kim and his girl were still looking at each other when they left the store. Mary Faith did not glance in their direction as she passed them. She never had had a moment's curiosity about the girl who had taken Kim away from her.

It was ten minutes after five by the illuminated clock in the tower of the City Bank Building when she and Mark Nesbit again stepped out into the crowd of hurrying, last-minute shoppers on Spring Street.

"I'm going to meet my mother at six and drive her home," he said as they turned west toward the garage. "So I'll have plenty of time to take you home first, Mary Faith. Unless you'd like to go somewhere and have some tea..."

"No, thanks." Food was the last thing that Mary Faith wanted at that moment. "But there's no need for you to drive me home, Mr. Nesbit. I can get a street car at the next corner."

"Well, I'd like to drive you home if you don't mind—I want to talk to you." He took her arm. "My mother would like you to come out to our house for Christmas. Judy's going to a matinee with some of the girls she goes to school with, and the Grants are going down to Washington for a week, so my mother and I will be alone. She'll probably call you up about it tonight."

Mary Faith knew just what Christmas day would be like at Mrs. Puckett's. There would be little-pig sausages and wheat cakes for breakfast. Afterward Mr. McClintock would complain of indigestion and send Agnes flying for the baking-soda bath. At eleven o'clock Mary Faith would go to church and that would be lovely—mistletoe and holly on the walls, candles flickering, the choir-boys singing "O, Come All Ye Faithfuls" that always made her heart swell and a lump come into her throat.

There would be a four-course dinner at Mrs. Puckett's at two o'clock, and later on Mrs. Puckett would fall asleep with a newspaper over her face while the Brock girls and Miss Halperin and Mary Faith played auction bridge before the fire.

At seven o'clock there would be a cold supper in the dining room and people would come in from the neighborhood to eat, as they always did on Sundays and holidays. At ten o'clock Mary Faith would go upstairs to bed; and Christmas, "the gladdest day of all the year," would be over for her.

"It's lovely of your mother to want me," she said slowly, racking her brains for an excuse to give him for not accepting the invitation. She didn't want to accept it. It was one thing to go out to the house in Blue Valley as a secretary and quite another thing to spend the day there as a guest. "But I don't believe I can go. You see, Mrs. Puckett's a sort of second-mother to me, and I always spend Christmas with her," she went on.

"You spend every day in the year

"Mary Faith, don't you know I'm in love with you?"

with Mrs. Puckett."

"I spend every day in the week with you in your office, Mr. Nesbit."

"I don't want you in my office!" he interrupted her sharply. He swung her to one side of the wet, crowded pavement and stopped before an enormous shop window filled with Christmas toys.

"I seem to have picked a funny place to talk to you like this," he said awkwardly. "Mary Faith, don't you know I'm in love with you? My mother does. She spotted it the first day you came out to the house—"

"Oh, don't!" Mary Faith was shaking her head. "Please don't go on talking like this—"

"You don't care for me, Mary Faith?"

"Oh, yes. But wait—" She wanted to tell him that she did care for him; that she cared for his friendship and wanted to keep it. . . . And she wanted to stop him before he asked her to marry him.

"I have been waiting," he said, quietly persistent. "I've known I felt this way about you ever since that night last fall when you told me you were going to be married. I must have been in love with you long before that, without realizing it. When you came in the next morning and said you'd broken your engagement it was like giving me a new lease on life. . . ."

"Wait just a minute, please," Mary Faith interrupted him. "I didn't break my engagement. I let you and everybody else think that I did—to save my face." She caught her breath and went on: "The man I was going to marry broke it. He was in love with another girl and he came and told me so. . . . He was the man who spoke to me in Armbruster's just now. The girl was with him. At least, I suppose it was the girl."

Kim had thrown her aside like a book that he had finished reading, and she wanted Mark Nesbit to know it. It was only fair to tell him the truth.

"I'll never give the snap of my fingers for anyone again—in that way," she said. "I must have given him all the love I had to give anybody."

They walked on in silence. And in silence they got into the gray car and started for Mrs. Puckett's. When they were halfway there Mark Nesbit spoke again.

"You're very young to look at things like this, Mary Faith. One love affair that turned out badly isn't the whole show. You have a long life ahead of you, and you've got to live it. You've seen a good deal of me the last two weeks, and you've seemed to be very happy. You do like me, don't you?"

"I wish I could tell you how much I like you," she said; "but I don't feel about you as I did about Kim."

"I like him now," she thought. "But if I married him I'd probably stop liking him. I'd grow to hate him because he wasn't Kim."

There was a rich smell of vegetable soup in Mrs. Puckett's house that night. Mr. McClintock was walking up and down the hall when Mary Faith came in, waiting for Agnes to throw open the dining room doors. He lived from one meal to the next.

Miss Halperin came flying down the stairs and called for Mrs. Puckett. "Allie Brock has been taking a bath in that bathroom for one solid hour!" she complained bitterly. "And here I am, waiting to get dressed to go out to a dinner date. . . . Now, what am I going to do?"

Mrs. Puckett looked appealingly at Mary Faith. "She can use your washbowl, can't she, dearie?" she asked. "You don't mind, do you?"

Mary Faith did mind. She minded very much. But she opened her handbag and gave Miss Halperin the key to her room.

"Dinner will be ready in just a minute, anyway," Mrs. Puckett drew her into the parlor. "You'd only have to run 'way up to your room and straight down again. . . . Was that Mr. Nesbit who brought you home just now?"

"Yes," Mary Faith took off her tight little hat and showed the heavy hair back from her forehead.

"Well, it's getting to be quite a romance, isn't it?"

Mary Faith shook her head. "No, and it's never going to be a romance." All at once she found Mrs. Puckett's arched too heavy to be borne. "I stopped working for him today."

BENEFITS OF REDUCED HOG SUPPLY SEEN

Higher Prices Indicative of Marketing Changes Says Advisor

Higher hog prices received by farmers in Morgan and other Illinois counties since the middle of June are indicative of the material reduction in supplies and marketing changes taking place in both the United States and the world, in the opinion of Farm Adviser I. E. Pareit.

A further material reduction in domestic hog marketings this summer as compared with last year also appears probable as a result of early marketings of hogs from the 1933 fall pig crop, it is said.

It is evident that farmers in this country are not the only producers who are making a serious effort to adjust production in line with probable consumption. According to the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, recent estimates put the number of hogs in Denmark in mid-April at about 30 per cent less than at that time last year.

This decrease carries out the Danish policy of restricting hog production to conform to the reduced outlet for Danish bacon in the United Kingdom. Bacon exports from Denmark this year up to April 30 were 33 per cent less than comparable 1932-33 figures, and nearly 50 per cent less than in 1931-32.

With a more favorable outlet for Great Britain Canada is exporting less bacon into the United States than usual, it is pointed out. During the first four months of this year Canadian exports to this country amounted to only 151,000 pounds as against 335,000 pounds for the same period in 1933.

The increased Canadian exportation of bacon to Great Britain has been an important price-making factor for live hogs on the Canadian markets for some months, owing to the provisions of the Ottawa agreement which placed the import quota of Canadian bacon in the United Kingdom at a high level. Bacon exports to Great Britain from Canada for the first four months of this year reached 44,470,000 pounds, or almost three times as much as during the same period last year.

Changes have also taken place in the export status of the United States. Exports of pork from this country in April were smaller than in April, 1933, but this year's April exports were about the same as in the corresponding month a year ago. Encouragement can be noted, however, from the fact that shipments of both pork and lard from the principal ports in the United States increased materially in May.

Changes have also taken place in the export status of the United States. Exports of pork from this country in April were smaller than in April, 1933, but this year's April exports were about the same as in the corresponding month a year ago. Encouragement can be noted, however, from the fact that shipments of both pork and lard from the principal ports in the United States increased materially in May.

Winchester Man Fatally Injured in Auto Mishap; Manchester Woman Hurt

Winchester, July 3.—Herman Smith, well known Winchester resident, was fatally injured and Mrs. Matthew Cotter of Manchester was seriously hurt in a head-on automobile collision on a dirt road in front of the James Doyle farm, three miles west of Winchester about one o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Smith passed away at Passavant hospital in Jacksonville tonight.

Bert Willis, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith was driving east enroute to the Walter Scott residence, where the gentlemen were to act as pall bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Walter Scott, when the accident occurred.

The car coming from the east was driven by Henry Hudson of Manchester, who was accompanied by Mrs. Guy Brown, Mrs. Matthew Cotter, Mrs. John Elliott and Mrs. Clyde Chapman, all of Manchester and who were also driving to attend the Scott funeral. A passing car had raised an intense cloud of dust and the view of the road was entirely obliterated when the cars crashed head-on.

Mr. Smith who was driving in the front seat with Mr. Willis was thrown thru the windshield of the car by the impact of the crash and received serious scalp wounds and a fractured skull. He was rushed to the office of Dr. R. R. Jones by nearby workmen for medical attention. Dr. Res- nald Norris of Jacksonville was called into consultation and Smith was removed by ambulance to the Passavant hospital in Jacksonville, where he passed away at 8:45 o'clock, never having regained consciousness.

Mrs. Cotter, an elderly woman, was riding in the front seat of the Hudson car, and was likewise thrown into the windshield of the car, receiving a severe scalp wound and an internal injury. She was rushed to the office of Dr. J. W. Eckman and later removed to Our Savant hospital in Jacksonville. Her condition is considered serious. The other occupants of the cars received minor cuts and bruises.

Herman Smith, 53, was born in Winchester and has lived here all of his life. He was a faithful member of the Baptist church and had served as deacon and secretary of the Sunday school for many years. Mr. Smith was a caretaker of the Winchester grade school and will be greatly missed by the children of the school.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Helen. The remains were moved to the Stainforth Funeral Home this evening. Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Coroner E. O. Sample will conduct an inquest Wednesday morning at Jacksonville. Mrs. Smith gave testimony last night.
